PALATKA.

(THq GEM CITY)

Palatka was settled in 1821. The earliest settlement of which there was any record was made by James Marion, Ills, and Woodruff, who in that year purchased Spanish grants and established a trading post on the Ocklawaha, where their subsequent life was spent dealing with the Indians. According to Marion, the name Palatka signifies "fishing place," and was applied to the town or settlement on account of his being a favorite spot among the Indians for catching fish. From this the town's name, Point, on the opposite side of the river.

The trading post was located at the foot of Main Street not far from where the Florida Southern Railway depot now stands. Some years later the post and lands passed into the hands of J. N. Bean, at 1882, his two nephews, Thomas and William Bean, conducting the "store" and maintaining the Indian trade until the breaking out of the Seminole War, when it was burned. The proprietors removed to the river in 1838 and the present town was laid out. For some years after the town was laid out, the lands were sold for a total of $1,000. Of this sum, $700 was for the land and the rest was for the house and store. The town was laid out in 1838 and the first house was built in 1840.

The town was laid out in 1838 and the first house was built in 1840.

In 1853 a fire destroyed the town and the rest have gradually disappeared. On Saturday, Nov. 8th, 1884, a severe conflagration destroyed all the larger hotels and the business center of Palatka. This fire proved to be a blessing in disguise, for Phoenix like new brick blocks and hotels have arisen on the ashes of the old and today, in spite of disaster, Palatka stands third in the list of the galaxy of enterprising cities in East and South Florida.

Many of the great military men were at one time here, and some who are now prominent first gained their experience in the Seminole War. Generals Scott, Taylor, and Gaines once had their headquarters here. General Sherman was located here as headquarters, also General Grant. The two men mentioned, in a recent visit, recognized several old landmarks among the new improvements since made.

Palatka today has a population of 3,981. It is located on the west bank of the St. Johns, 15 miles by the winding of the river and 38 miles by rail south of Jacksonville and 50 east of Gainesville. The city is built on a fine elevation, the slope to the river affording natural wharfs for

This fire proved to be a blessing in disguise, for Phoenix like new brick blocks and hotels have arisen on the ashes of the old and today, in spite of disaster, Palatka stands third in the list of the galaxy of enterprising cities in East and South Florida.

Many of the great military men were at one time here, and some who are now prominent first gained their experience in the Seminole War. Generals Scott, Taylor, and Gaines once had their headquarters here. General Sherman was located here as headquarters, also General Grant. The two men mentioned, in a recent visit, recognized several old landmarks among the new improvements since made.

Palatka today has a population of 3,981. It is located on the west bank of the St. Johns, 15 miles by the winding of the river and 38 miles by rail south of Jacksonville and 50 east of Gainesville. The city is built on a fine elevation, the slope to the river affording natural wharfs for the numerous steam and sailing craft which furnish ample sail and steam transportation facilities. The streets are regularly laid out, and both in the business and residence quarters lined with orange trees loaded with fruit or fragrant blossoms. During the season large shipments of oranges are made from this point. A dozen steamers stop at the whares during the day, and the Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West Railway affords rapid communication with Jacksonville and Sanford, to which latter named city this road has recently been completed. The business houses are large and well fitted up, the churches and halls spacious, and the residences many of them surrounded by beautiful grounds.

The Florida Southern Railway runs to Gainesville and Ocala, and the line has recently been extended to Pompano Beach, where it connects with the South Florida Railroad, forming a through line to Tampa, and also a branch to Brooksville, in which trains are now running. The road is rapidly being extended on down the peninsula to Charlotte Harbor. Ocean steamers run to Charleston, S. C. at regular intervals.

Another railroad, the St. Augustine & Palatka Railway, is now nearly completed, forming an air line road between Palatka and St. Augustine. It runs from Sunny Point, a fine bluff with deep water, directly opposite Palatka, 24 miles to a point on the St. Johns Railway of Florida about six miles west of St. Augustine. It is standard gauge and will add another link to Palatka's well won front. It has been said that in the secure that happens, so it is possible that St. Augustine, with its seventeen feet of water at high tide, may after all, with this connecting link of railroad, be the spot for Palatka. The central office of the Florida and in the Atchafalaya, Jacksonville, Florida, and Major Richard McLaughlin is President of the company which owns it.

Since the consolidation in 1884, Palatka has been deprived of the hotel facilities which it deserved. In addition to the Graham, the Curtin and the Sammora, which were not destroyed at that time, there has been recently erected the Phoenix Hotel, a brick structure, situated in the business center and now open. It has been reserved for the exclusive use of the people of Palatka to erect a hotel which is the wonder of every stranger who arrives there. It is built on the site of the old Palatka House, which name it retains, and occupies a whole square. It is 254 feet in front with an L 281 feet long, three stories in height. There is another L 381 feet in length. The dining room is 120x42 feet and open wood fire places are in all the public rooms and many of the parlors and chambers. There are elevators, steam heat, electric lights, billiard halls, parlor rooms, baths hot and cold water, sulphur, and other baths, a tropical garden in the interior court around which the hotel is built and where fountains lend an enchantment to the scene. Not content with this vast expense, another addition is to be made during the coming season, which will add 250 rooms to the capacity of the hotel, making in all 500 sleeping apartments in this elegant establishment. New gas works are now in operation and Palatka has fully recovered from what at first seemed a disaster, but has resulted in a blessing. To see Palatka now is to see a gas stove yellow with fire, and the lamps burning brightly, and with music in the air floating from the parlors of the hotels, the scene is suggestive of life in Italy, and directly in contrast with the frozen North.
